

UNDERCLOTHING OF WOMEN FOUND ON FARM LABORERS

Winona Police Make Strange Discovery When They Disrobe Two Suspects

Winona police, like members of the police profession elsewhere, have accounted prisoners in Tuxedos and in overalls, in broadcloth and in denim, in shirtsleeves and with no shirts at all—in fact in all degrees of attire and lack of attire, but they admit that they received a shock when they arrested Christ Thompson, 28 years old, and Oliver Amundson, 32 years old, farm laborers, and found them wearing ladies' underwear.

The authorities started a search for the two men, who have been engaged as corn-bushers on a farm near Fountain City, when they were informed that several articles of women's wearing apparel were missing from a rooming house where the pair had been staying.

They located Amundson navigating with some difficulty along Third street. He dodged into a restaurant, but was soon apprehended. He was taken to the police station on a charge of intoxication and lodged in a cell. Thompson was found several hours later asleep in a room at the rear of a local soft drink saloon. He was also arrested on an intoxication charge.

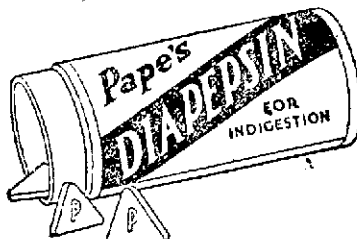

When he was brought to the station, police, acting on suspicion, proceeded to search him. They found him wearing a woman's green sweater, they said, and, on further investigation, discovered that he was wearing a suit of ladies' underwear, both listed among the articles reported missing from the rooming house.

Amundson was then taken from his cell and examined. Search revealed, according to the police, that he was wearing a suit of women's underwear and two pairs of women's stockings, one silk and one cotton. The masculine figures of the two farmhands were disrobed of the feminine apparel—ribbons, lace, and everything, after which the pair were returned to their cells.

The original list of the Mayflower showed 111 passengers.

VULCANITE ROOFINGS

VULCANITE HEXAGON SLABS are approved by the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Vulcanite Hexagon Slabs look better - wear better - give better protection

YOU cannot place too much importance on the subject of the right roofing for your home. You know how very much an attractive, distinctive roof adds to its appearance. And also, how important it is to have durable, sealed-tight, fire-resisting protection.

Vulcanite Hexagon Slabs give you these desirable features in a way which no other shingle possibly can. The pleasing design, in either jade green or Indian red, makes an especially attractive roof. And the patented construction gives you a double thickness at every place. It also reduces the expense of application, for each slab automatically spaces itself. A Vulcanite roof resists fire and the cutting wear of weather. It always lies flat and is an enduring source of satisfaction.

Ask your lumber or building supply dealer to tell you about all the Vulcanite roofings. There is a wide range, from roll roofings for large buildings and small, to individual shingles for the most decorative roofs. All are built up to the high "Beaver Quality" standard, identified by the Beaver trade-mark.

All patented Vulcanite Roofing specialties are made in both jumbo and standard weights.

Perfect Adaptation

PROBABLY several hundred hunters took advantage of the five-day open season on partridge which closed on Sunday, to scour the bluffs around La Crosse in search of the thunder-wings. But it is a pretty safe bet that there were many less partridges killed than there were hunters after them, although there is no doubt that the birds were fairly numerous this year. The combination of partridge speed and partridge instinct in keeping in the thickest cover makes him, of all game in this section, the least liable to extinction by hunters. Any one with luck to be where they come in can shoot ducks. A good dog will permit any hunter to bag the limit of rabbits in half a day. Squirrels haven't a chance against a shotgun. But when one goes after partridge the odds are all against him. Even the best shot cannot count on having a partridge dinner unless he has the luck to get a few open shots. For there is no bird that gets away so fast, or has the knack of dodging out of shot with such unerring instinct for his safety. Add to this the protective coloration that makes him invisible even within a few feet and even one who has not tried his hand at it can recognize the difficulties before the hunter. Probably that is why sportsmen recognize this bird as not only the choicest game but the most sporting proposition that this region affords. Two partridges represent more of a triumph for one's gun than the limit of any other game hereabouts.

Every hunter pays tribute to the perfection of nature's skill in fitting the partridge to his environment. Time out of mind they have been witness to the bird's trick of flight that brings him up with a whirling rush within ten feet of the hunter, and sends him rocketing into dense brush before the quickest hand can raise and point a gun. And each time they have marvelled how the bird could reach such speed so quickly, or how maintain it in his rush through apparently impenetrable masses of leaves and branches. How does the bird avoid the obstacles in the thickets which he chooses for his home? How can he swerve his head-long drive without a check, angling in half a dozen directions in as many seconds? By what intelligence does he so accurately choose the direction of his flight to get out of sight by the quickest air-line, invariably?

The partridge is a miracle of flight, all the more mysterious to man now that he has begun to venture in the air himself and is discovering some of the difficulties. Man flies in a machine that must run along the ground long distances before it can rise. He must have great, level, open spaces to get up and alight upon. He must be far aloft above all obstructions to have any sort of safety. His turns in the air must be made gradually and slowly with plenty of room. No doubt it is a great achievement, man's dawning conquest of the air. But how clumsy, how ineffective, against the effortless speed and precision of the partridge's flight!

No Brains

THERE is great entertainment to be had in watching a game of baseball, but there is not less amusement, one may think, in watching the performance of the dopesters, professional and amateur, who attempt to predict the outcome. The amateurs who depend upon instinct and prejudice for their hunches are less amusing than the solemn professionals of whom Hughie Fullerton, veteran baseball writer, is the perfect exemplar. Because the amateurs do their stuff with the grave assurance that it is all intelligent and scientific translation of the records. That the result is generally about the same whether the method be professional or amateur adds, we should say, rather than detracting from the entertainment.

In the World Series, for instance, Hughie Fullerton predicted in advance not only that the Yankees would win easily, but he even announced in advance what the scores would be. It is now history that the Yankees lost the title in five games, the best they could get being one tie. One would think that Hughie would have very little to say after that—but baseball dopsters are not built that way. Mr. Fullerton piles on the comedy by a grave dissertation in epilogue explaining why his prediction went sour. It has a hurt sort of tone, too, which makes the comedy reminiscent of Charlie Chaplin at his best. One feels that Hughie blames gods as well as men for the conspiracy which resulted in his downfall.

The explanation, in brief, of why the dope went wrong is that the Yankees had everything and the Giants nothing except the brains of McGraw. Mr. Fullerton implies that of course you can't figure brains in as a scientific factor. All one can take account of is the records—the figures which cannot lie. This is reminiscent of the calculations by which the deluded rabbit fancier demonstrates as a mathematical certainty that three pair of rabbits will make him a fortune in three years. The figures are bullet-proof, but something always happens to spoil it.

Hughie is right in one respect. The "dope" can't be mixed with brains. Indeed, we think Hughie's record for the 1922 world series just about proves it.

Wonder if, with his passion for statistical signs and omens, Hughie has his own world series record embalmed thus:

Fullerton5	0 .000

Ha—there may be something in the system after all. As far as we remember that is a perfect example of Hughie's record ever since he began baseball predicting. On that basis, using his own method, it would be the forecast that every time Hughie makes a prophecy it will be wrong. And it always is. That, we should say, is the lone exception which proves the rule that you can never depend on the "dope."

Pets

THE average city dweller is not a lover of pets, says Frank D. Hutchins, secretary of the Pet Dealers' Association. He finds foreign-born citizens "very fond of pets," especially Germans, Irish, Scotch and Italians. The leading demand in the pet business now is for pigeons, which are selling at $5 to $150 apiece in New York. It is all very fine to be kind to animals. But a good deal of affection is wasted on pets that should go to humans.

Flying

IMPORTANT safety device for airplanes is placed on the market by A. V. Roe & Co. It is a shock-absorber to make landing easy and eliminate bouncing, especially on rough ground. If you live 20 more years you will see airplanes settle down as slowly and lightly as a feather, moving a few inches right or left so paint will not be scratched while entering the air garage through the roof.

In Detroit, Mr. Coffin was put in charge of a flying contest and we can prove it.

In Ye Olden Times

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY
Miss Winifred Salisbury today assumed her duties as secretary of the Associated Charities of La Crosse and will have her headquarters in the court house. Miss Salisbury has signed a contract with the Associated Charities for one year. She will devote her time to visiting the homes of the poorer classes of the city and will devise methods for making dependent families self-sustaining. She will have the office formerly used by C. H. Berry, humane officer.

Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, 1432 Farwell street, returned to La Crosse today after a three months' trip to Europe. They spent most of their time in Germany. The first stop toward changing the fire hose system for the automobile system by the local fire department was taken this morning, when C. L. Colman, police and fire commissioner, presented the fire department with a Knox automobile to be used by Chief Bradford. The machine can make thirty miles per hour and will greatly expedite the work of the department.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY
At a meeting of the members of the Presbyterian church in Hohok Anthony Demo was re-elected and John Krick elected as trustees of the church. Rev. Bantley was called as pastor of the church for the coming year. He has also been retained as pastor of the La Crosse and Houston churches.

The Trading Stamp Company has moved into the vacant building on North Third street between Main and State.

Bids for the sale of $12,550 worth of special improvement bonds were to have been opened in the city hall yesterday but there were no bidders.

Rev. E. E. Ferris of the First Baptist church of this city has been appointed a delegate to the meeting in Buffalo, N. Y., next week for the advancement of evangelistic work. He received the appointment while attending the state convention at Milwaukee.

Henry Flueck, who recently resigned as bookkeeper in the State bank owing to ill health, has been presented with a handsome gold watch by the directors of the bank.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY
Dr. A. W. Trevitt and family have moved here from Wausau, Wis. Dr. Trevitt will establish a practice here.

George L. Kingsley, Jr., one of Uncle Sam's trusted mail carriers will be seen spinning along his route after this astride a bike with his mail pouch strapped to his shoulders. He was busy getting acquainted with the machine yesterday.

Cyrus K. Lord, honored pioneer of Wisconsin and La Crosse, died early yesterday morning at his home, 117 South Eighth street, of the infirmities of old age. Mr. Lord was born in Maine in 1812. He came to Wisconsin and settled at Platteville in 1842 but in 1853 he was appointed register of the United States land office at La Crosse and brought his family here. He has practiced law at various times since and has also been interested in publishing the Democrat. He was police justice several terms.

Frank Fowler has become quite a capable surveyor in City Engineer Crosby's office. He is now in charge of a party doing river improvement work under Capt. Thompson.

Regardless of what individual views may be with respect to international policies, there is a common desire to know more about the European situation. For this reason, consent was given to the request that I contribute a series of articles based upon the impressions which were developed from close contact with most of the continental countries.

Until this summer I knew no more about Europe than those who had read its history and what has been written about the present economic status. Our first article may have little interest for those who have been overseas. They are so vastly in the minority, however, that it may not be out of place to give some attention to those uninitiated in European travel.

From an agricultural viewpoint, Normandy is doubtless the most beautiful country in Europe. The diversity of crops, the pleasing, undulating character of the land, the well-kept villages and magnificent distances, make a picture that is lasting. On the continent, the fields have not been leached. Cultivation of the soil is intensive and fence rows would make a considerable trespass upon fertile areas.

The fields stretch out from the highways in symmetrical proportions and we were fascinated with what we saw. The wheat was ripening, the oats carried the rich green so common in early spring, the alfalfa and clover were in bloom and as far as the eye could see, the poppy had added its incomparable touch. Whether the Normandy farmer has been moved to poetry by this beautiful flower we do not know. In some wheat fields it was as thick as the white-top which annoys the American farmer in hay-cutting time.

The chateau district of France is most attractive, but it will not make the same appeal to a farmer. Switzerland has delighted the senses of pilgrims for centuries. The great heights which break into the skyline carry the flora and fauna of every climate in Europe. One sees the filled area at the base of the mountains; the hay fields come next and then the pasture land first for the cattle and lastly the boats which browse to the very limits of eternal snows. Bavaria too is beautiful.

Europe's Most Beautiful City—Paris; Saddest—Vienna

Just north of Vienna lie thousands of acres as smooth as the western plains and as rich as the richest valleys. Much the same character of soil is found north of Dresden.

The most pleasing composite picture of country life is in England. In all parts of Europe save in the mountains, the population is so dense that tillable lands are veritable garden spots. The most appealing architecture is in France; the prettiest villages in Germany, although the Swiss chalets built in clusters in the mountain sides, adorned with flowers, are a fascinating feature.

The quietest city is La Pur, lying in the region where Roman ruins are still to be seen. Its medieval character has been scarcely touched by modern life. It is off the beaten path of travel. It attracts mostly students in

A Job For Annabel

BY H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

According to her friends, Annabel was spoiled. According to her relatives she was an extremely lucky girl. Wasn't she the only child in a large and adoring circle of aunts, uncles and cousins—not to mention parents and grandparents—whose one aim had been, ever since Annabel opened blue eyes on the welcoming world, to supply her every wish and whim?

Annabel's most intimate friend, Carlotta, said frankly that Annabel was a dear, but that, unless she was to carry in her mouth throughout life the silver spoon she had been born with, a few hard knocks and responsibilities would do her a world of benefit. In fact, she went to considerable pains to induce that young lady to complete her education with a business course and get a job.

So persuasive was she that Annabel halfway yielded, only to learn, when she broached the matter at home, that she would take a job over the dead bodies of her mother, grandmother and at least three aunts. The consequence was that Annabel continued to live a life of idle gaiety, at odd moments envying the occupied, independent Carlotta, and her parents continued to groom her for the one position they deemed worth while—that of some man's wife.

One by one, however, Annabel refused the various youths with whom she had grown up. She liked them well enough, in a sisterly sort of fashion, but when it came to settling down with one of them indefinitely—no, indeed, and quite the contrary. "Annabel's a smart girl," her mother confided one day to Carlotta's mother. "She's not going to be satisfied with any mediocre fellow, with brains enough to make a bare living and no more. My little girl's been used to having everything, and less than that will never satisfy her."

Carlotta's mother refrained from speech for a moment. Carlotta had just announced her engagement to Sam Whitcomb, one of the "mediocre youths" undeniably to whom her friend referred. Then, with an inward smile and no premonition as to the wheels her innocent words would set in motion, she remarked casually, "My cousin who's coming to visit me from Nebraska would be just the man for Annabel."

"How so?" said Annabel's mother, not without eagerness.

"Well," said the other, then hesitated. "Well, for the one thing, he's got loads of money." It wasn't what

Europe Through An Editor's Eyes

By James M. Cox, Ex-Governor of Ohio

First Article—A Bird's-Eye View of Europe

geology. Into a bowl, the rim of which is created by the mountains, nature has protruded vast columns of rock so hard as to defy the whims of the seasons.

From a distance they look like the spires of a cathedral. Scientists contend that they are the cores of volcanoes. Intensive subterranean pressure evidently forced the lava much like the spray of a fountain. The hardening process left no chance for erosion. The rains and the frosts in the millions of years that have elapsed have carried the soil into level and undulating areas, but the vast columns remain. On the very top of one, hundreds of feet in height, a cathedral has stood for centuries. La Fayette was born near here and his chateau is still standing.

I think Paris is entitled to be called the most beautiful city in Europe. If grass grew in her parks as it does in Berlin and in London, there would be an added charm. The parks in the German and English capitals are How About Europe?

Every American has been trying to answer this question, which has an important bearing upon American industry and finance, but the maze of misinformation, propaganda and theories encountered causes most people to give up in despair.

James M. Cox, democratic candidate for president in 1920, and editor of The Dayton News, studied Europe as an American newspaper man, from an American's viewpoint. This is the first of his articles. Others will appear daily in the Tribune and Leader-Press.

Read these articles and get a better perspective regarding the European situation.

much more attractive. The saddest spot is Vienna. There is evidence of the splendor and the artistic triumphs of days gone by, but the funeral springs of civilization are drying up.

Will Take Forty Years to Repair Rheims Cathedral

Cathedrals are always of interest. In current history, the one at Rheims doubtless takes first place. The old cardinal who held mass during the bombardment says it will require forty years to repair the destruction of stone and stonework.

In making comparison, there are no two cathedrals alike. The one at Rheims is rich in history and architectural charm. The most wonderful modern edifice is found in Milan. In size, and in its contact with early days of the Christian religion, St. Peter's at Rome of course takes first place. The art treasures in the Vatican are priceless. In the matter of preserving the traditions, if not the most indisputable evidences of the infancy of Christianity, the Vatican as an institution is entitled to the gratitude of all Christians. This is not the observation of a Catholic, but of an Episcopalian whose forebears were of the Protestant faith for centuries.

Westminster Abbey which in spots is beginning to show signs of physical decay will always be a shrine for Episcopals. Englishmen may live in the hope that their remains will be buried there. I doubt whether it would make appeal however to anyone else.

Not infrequently you will find some of the old churches that are a mixture of the Roman and Gothic types. When one considers that they were three hundred years in building the cathedral at Rheims, he will understand why developing periods left their impression.

In America one's conception of things is entirely modern. The skeptic might be disposed, before going to Rome, to doubt the existence of Christ, yet when he gets there he may get the impression that the birth of Christ was in a sense the beginning of the modern period. We look upon a house in America as more or less a curiosity if it's a hundred years old. We were entertained at a country place near Vichy. The chateau was very attractive. We inquired whether it was old, and the response was, "No, not at all. It was built only a hundred and fifty years ago."

In passing through the parts of southern France you will find evidences of Roman occupation. The mount-Ferrand for instance, which was built four hundred years before Christ, we met an Irishman who said, "Things were doing here when time was a pup."

Songbirds Missing on European Continent

The bird life in Europe is not comparable to that in America. On the continent you do not hear the song of the lark; the robin redbreast is missing and if the cardinal is there, I did not see him. The mountains were extremely disappointing in this respect.

Singularly, England, which lies farther to the north, has many more birds. In France, you will find ring-necked pheasants and some quail, possibly like our own. England has the grouse which nests in the moors, some pheasant and a partridge which in the middle west is called the Hungarian pheasant. It's about twice the size of a quail. It has never thrived in our country. It does well, however, in England.

When one sees the flowers of America and Europe, he is apt, if he knows nothing about the wondrous variety of bloom in the orient and the tropics, to conclude that there is nothing new, at least in the growth of flowers, under the sun. The old trumpet vine is found from Brittany to Rome, and all through the Alps, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Germany and Holland.

The French, Germans, Dutch and English are great lovers of flowers. The salvia or scarlet sage is seen everywhere. The oleander is grown in pots in northernmost parts of France and Germany, but after one gets in the regions of the Mediterranean, he finds it is as hardy as the rhododendron. The beauties of the hydrangea which we Americans have admired so much in its best development in the White mountains are seen to their best advantage in northern Italy, as one leaves Milan and approaches the lake regions. The geranium, however, does better in Europe than in America.

The average of livestock is much higher in America. Continental Europe, for the most part, has only mongrel types of cattle. In America we breed specifically for milk, butterfat or beef. In Europe, food, aside from milk, is not considered. The contribution in milk and butter, of course, has beautiful herds of Holsteins. The Jersey and Guernsey Islands are yet the base of fine breeding in these types of cattle, but you don't see much of them on the continent.

Struggle for Existence Hard in Cevennes Mountains

The Norman family of horses is in vogue in the northern parts of the continent. Belgium, in some respects, has improved the breed. The Suffolk horse of England is a refinement of the type. The saddle horses are fair. No one would be interested in importing sheep to America except from England and Scotland.

The hardest struggle for human existence which we saw was in the Cevennes mountains, north of Avignon. To an outsider, the scenes here are pathetic, but the mountaineers, who know little or nothing of the outside world, seem perfectly content. Wheat fields were planted around the mountain slopes look like mere strings of color. In many instances they are not over ten feet wide. In some sections there are no cattle. The goat supplies milk and cheese, and the human food consists almost entirely of bread, cheese, wine and a few potatoes. The grape will grow anywhere.

The most impressive governmental experiments now going on are in Ireland, Czechoslovakia, Albania and Germany. These questions will be treated later. Stripped of eastern Europe, it is perfectly apparent that central and western Europe must depend, in goodly measure, upon other parts of the world for a food supply. The average farmer has neither wheat nor oats nor rye to sell. Until Russia is rehabilitated, the demand from the western hemisphere will be tremendous, provided Europe has the means with which to buy.

The great staple of the potato. Without it some parts of Europe could scarcely have lived since the war. There is some doubt about its origin. Authorities have traced its history, and believe it is a native of the Chilean and Peruvian Andes. Since it is found, however, as far north as Colorado in wild form, the South American claims may not be well based. Sir Francis Drake introduced it into England in 1586, although Sir Walter Raleigh is said to have taken it with him a year earlier. When one remembers that Lewis and Clark, in their expedition in the northwest, found the Indians cultivating watermelons, he inclines to the belief that food staples were originally pretty well scattered over the face of the earth.

These matters of European life may hold some interest, but they deserve no place in the treatment of the more abstract subject matters dealing with government, war, peace and economics that come later.

A Job For Annabel

BY H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

she had meant, but her statement was sufficiently accurate.

"How long is he to be here?" The words were intended to convey casual interest. And perhaps they did.

But at any rate, from the day that Landis Robertson arrived in town he was marked for Annabel's husband. Nor was there need to inquire into his personal status. That he was a cousin of the Coopers was sufficient recommendation. Furthermore, he was a valuable recommendation in himself. His attractive personality, his good looks, his extensive knowledge of western affairs, his immaculate wardrobe and seven-passenger limousine—well, who could blame Annabel's relatives for uniting in the opinion that he was the girl's one best bet?

As for Annabel herself, day by day she grew to feel a bitter resentment at being so patently thrown at the man's head.

"He's years older than I am," she protested one day to her mother, who had been singing his praises tirelessly.

"Only fourteen," returned her mother promptly, "and because of that difference, think what he has had time to acquire that one of the young fellows could not get! And if his business turns out as it should here, he expects to make this place his home. At least, that is the impression I gather from Nelly Cooper."

But Annabel turned coldly away. What could Landis think of her and her matchmaking family? That he thought nothing harsh, at least of the girl's life, was evident enough, for he wooed her tenderly and steadily. If occasionally his mind wandered, he concealed the fact, decking that several things could be better told when once sure that she returned his love.

Came a late summer afternoon when Landis and Annabel had motored far out into a country slowly ripening for harvest. Stopped at the top of a hill to cool the engine after a steep climb, the two gazed appreciatively at the green valleys and checkered fields below. Then Landis turned gently to his companion.

"I must tell you a few things about myself," he said tenderly.

But Annabel, reluctant for some reason or other, stopped him. "Please don't," she said. "I always stop men from telling me things about themselves. I'm—I'm afraid they're going to—propose!" It wasn't what Annabel had intended to say, but it was the truth and the words slipped out before she realized.

Landis laughed heartily. "And in this case you're exactly right!" he said. "That was and is my intention, which I won't permit to be thwarted. I love you and want to marry you, but before I tell you so I must rid my mind of something else. Something which I am afraid may make you think I should be at me."

That possibility piqued Annabel's interest. Also, there was stirring within her a tiny notion that if he hadn't proposed her heart would have been broken.

"Please tell me," she said curiously.

"I'll tell you a few things about myself," he said tenderly.

In The MOVIES

VAUDEVILLE—MAJESTIC

A remarkable dancing act offered by Casson Brothers and Marie features the hit of the week. The two men and a girl are exceptionally clever eccentric dancers, and they have produced an act full of originality which reaches its climax in a dance imitation of the dancing dolls on top of phonographs that was loudly applauded on Monday. A "has-been" dancer and several other numbers also went across well.

Four pretty girls and three comedians put across a "school act" in good shape as the closing act on the bill with a number of the latest songs and a little old-fashioned slapstick stuff which got good laughs. Clever hoop juggling by Hart and Frances, Burt Ford as a musical doughboy with strange instruments devised from weapons, and Tallman and Kerwin in a laughable talking and singing act also were well received.

"Where is My Wandering Boy," the picture feature, proved a gripping drama of home and mother, well performed by a competent cast, and full of pathos and beauty.

BARTHELMESS—RIVOLI

There is a hair raising climax in Richard Barthelmess' starring vehicle "The Bond Boy," that is thrilling crowds at the Rivoli Theatre this week. Trained by bloodhounds, the Newbolt the young hero has escaped from jail after receiving the death sentence for crime he didn't commit, is rapidly being overtaken when he reaches the home of Ollie Chase, for the death of whose husband he had been arrested. With her lover she tries to deny him and give him up, but the sight of his pitiful plight is too much. In her confusion Joe is exonerated, at the very moment that the discovery is made that Jason Chase had taken the farm by trickery. To Joe and his mother is restored the means of happiness and comfort. And incidentally a charming love story is brought to a conclusion that sends away happy everyone who sees it on the screen. Henry King, the director has guided star and cast, headed by Mary Alden and Mary Thurman, to a success which parallels "Tollable David."

BEBE DANIELS IN "PINK GODS"

Bebe Daniels, beautiful Paramount star, is featured in the new Paramount picture "Pink Gods" at the Casino Theatre tonight. She is cast opposite James Kirkwood who plays the part of John Quelch, an African diamond merchant. Miss Daniels and Mr. Kirkwood have many oppor-ties to demonstrate their abilities to carry off an emotional scene successfully. The picture, directed by Lenhyr Stanlows, is not overdone and proves unusually interesting. Anna Q. Nilsson and Raymond Hatton are well cast.

"BROADWAY ROSE" AN INSTANT HIT

In "Broadway Rose" which opened yesterday at the Riviera theatre, Mac Murray has again added to the dramatic interest of a powerful love story a dazzling production conspicuous for its gorgeous settings and wonderful costumes. Not the least interesting parts of the picture are those episodes where Miss Murray is given opportunity to display her ability as a dancer. There she becomes the idol of Broadway and receives the adulation which is showered on the favorites of the Gay White Way. Success in her career only serves to increase her desire for the love and happiness which every woman craves. And so when Hugh Thompson urges her to marry him she consents in spite of the fact that she knows that his father will disinherit him for marrying a dancer.

An excellent cast has been assembled to surround Miss Murray which includes Monte Blue, Alma Tell, Ray Bloomer, Charles Lane, Mrs. Jennings and Ward Crane.

"THE OLD HOMESTEAD" SCORES AT THE STRAND LAST NIGHT

"The Old Homestead" established its claim to perennial popularity when it was exhibited at the Strand theatre last night. The story seems to have lost none of its old time attractiveness. The cast of the picture includes Theodore Roberts as Uncle Josh, George Fawcett as Eph Holbrook, T. Roy Barnes as Happy Jack, Fritz Ridgeway as Ann, Harrison Ford as Ruben, Ethel Wiles as Matilda, Kathleen O'Connor as Rose, and James Mason as Lem.

The production made under the direction of James Cruze leaves nothing to be desired. We see Reuben's wandering among strange peoples and gain a view of the Old Homestead in a scene that is certainly convincing. It is a work of merit which deserves every success, because it is clean, wholesome, full of humor and pathos. It will be shown again tonight.

Monroe County Represented at Dairy Show; Marriage
Licenses Issued

SPARTA, Wis., Oct. 7.—Martin K. Simpson, 54, died in St. Mary's hospital on Saturday of pulmonary tuberculosis, aged 54 years.

He was born in Norway in 1868, and came to this country with his parents when he was a small boy. In 1898, he was united in marriage to Miss Clara Bonelli at Winona, Minn. They lived there for six years and then moved to Ardenia, where his wife died in 1912. For the past nine years, he has been a resident of Sparta. He was a buttermilk maker by trade, but for several years worked at the carpenter trade. He was in poor health for many years and the past eight months has been confined to the hospital.

His body was taken to Ardenia for burial by the side of his wife. The relatives surviving are an only child, Clarence Simpson of Sparta, two sisters, Mrs. Fred Ziegler of Ardenia and Mrs. Fred Ziegler of Los Angeles, Calif.; two brothers, Sam Simpson of Ardenia and Christian Simpson of Concord, Calif.

Dairy Show

Monroe county is well represented at the big National Dairy show being held in St. Paul this week. Two carloads of stock, one from Sparta and one from Tomah, about twenty-seven head in all, were shipped Thursday for the cattle exhibit. The Monroe county cattle will all be housed together, and above the entrance to the place of exhibit will be the words "Grade Dairy Cow Exhibit from Monroe County, Wis., where Dairy Cattle Abound, and Farmers Prosper."

Charles Vander Schaaf, Will Huddleston and Art Perso are the exhibitors from Sparta. Exhibitors will be exhibited by Donald Huddleston, Joyce Huddleston, Jake Weimer, Edward Schanz, Alfonso Schanz and Albert Reuten.

From Wisconsin, Henry Steinheff, William Brandau, Rudolph Brandau and Herbert Hubert are exhibiting cows at the show.

Marriage Licenses

County clerk A. L. Noel issued the following marriage licenses the past week: Robert K. Ziegler and Olive Rapp, both of the town of Hildreth; John A. Mayer of Milwaukee and Gertrude Larson, town of Greenfield; George A. Hoff of the town of Greenfield and Vera Mae Tompkins; Vernon Morgan of the town of Sparta and Clara Schanz of the town of Wells.

CADILLAC PHAETON IS STOLEN FROM A SHOW WINDOW

MADISON.—A new Cadillac phaeton, valued at $3,500 was stolen from the show window of the Jacobson-Austin garage, 207-11 East Washington avenue Sunday night or early Monday morning.

The theft of the machine was not discovered until this morning. The thief had unlocked the front door of the garage, backed several cars in order to gain access to the rear door and then drove the machine through the alley to Webster street.

The thief took his time and evidently knew the place well. O. S. Jacobson, president of the company said today following the discovery of the burglary.

The car had been used for demonstrating purposes and the tank was about half filled with gasoline. Tracks of the stolen machine were found in the alley this morning and showed that the machine had been driven into the street almost directly across from the police station.

The man stealing the machine evidently judged that if he was seen taking the car he could pose as taking it out for a demonstration, Mr. Jacobson said.

SHORT LINE R. R. IS PURCHASED BY NEW LISBON MAN

Wm. Cash is New Owner of Short Line; Son to Operate
New Purchase

TOMAH.—Word has been received in this city of the purchase of the C. C. railroad known as the Cazenovia line by William Cash of New Lisbon. The railway line has been owned and operated since its establishment by the city of New Lisbon and the town of Westford. It is a short line running from New Lisbon to La Valle. The road has some rolling stock and operates a gasoline engine for transportation purposes. The railroad is but seven miles long and it is rumored that the price paid for it was $10,000. The road connects with the main line of the Northwestern at La Valle. It has been operated under difficulties ever since it was built. Its original owners getting tired of their responsibility early in the game. Rather than have no railroad facilities, the village of Cazenovia and the town of Westford decided to buy the line, and operate it. W. H. H. Cash, the new owner, also holds a block of stock in the Hillsboro and North-eastern railroad. When jolted by his friends on the short lines of railroad in which he has stock, Mr. Cash aptly retorted "that they may not be as long as some railroads, but they are just as wide, so why worry?" J. A. Cash who is to operate the new purchase of his father, W. H. H. Cash, has had considerable railroad experience, having been superintendent of the Cazenovia road for several years, and was before that time, connected with the other short line, the Hillsboro and Northeastern. It is hinted that the Cazenovia railroad is to be extended.

LARGE TRACT NEAR CALEDONIA IS MADE WILD GAME REFUGE

No Hunting to be Allowed in Village, or in 680 Acres
Tract Adjoining

CALEDONIA, Minn.—Special—Carlos Avery, state game and fish commissioner who, when here in the spring, expressed his dissatisfaction at seeing no squirrels running about on the lawns and in the parks of the place, has given the local game warden, George Metcalf, Sr., orders to see that all hunting in the confines of the village is stopped. Commissioner Avery also designated six hundred and eighty acres adjoining the village of Caledonia on the west, as a state game refuge, in which the carrying of fire-arms is prohibited by law and in which the molesting of wild game is punishable. As it is also unlawful to discharge fire-arms within the corporate limits of the village without the consent of the village council, the entire village and the 680 acres joining it make a large refuge for wild game. It is hoped that squirrels, quails, pheasants, partridges and the like will increase in this territory and become a source of pride and satisfaction to the community.

CANDLER BREAKS OFF HIS ENGAGEMENT TO NEW ORLEANS WOMAN

ATLANTA, Ga.—By The Associated Press.—Mrs. Onozima De Bouchel, of New Orleans, whose engagement to marry Asa G. Candler, Sr., Atlanta capitalist, was announced some years ago, made an announcement here Tuesday that Mr. Candler broke the engagement because of a report brought to him reflecting upon her character.

Mrs. De Bouchel said Mr. Candler refused and was still refusing to furnish the names of the persons he said accused her. She issued her statement following a final conference between her and Mr. Candler, at which she said "Mr. Candler told me he still loves me and wants to marry me, and that he does not believe this hideous slander."

"These reports, according to him," said Mrs. De Bouchel, "were that during a Confederate reunion in Atlanta three or four years ago, when I had the supreme honor of being chaperone general, and when I was attended every moment, I had solicited two men to visit me at the hotel at night."

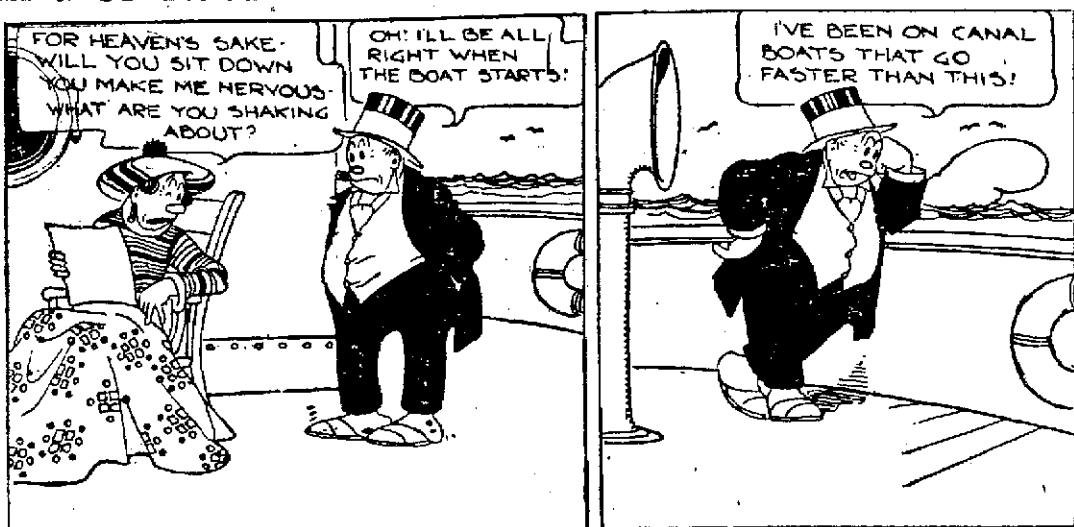

"This hideous slander and Mr. Candler's reception of it have broken my heart; but my will is not broken and I have faith that God will give me courage to defend myself."

8-YEAR-OLD GIRL INJURED IN ACCIDENT AT THIRD AND MAIN

Violet Maloy, 706 1/2 Mill Street, Sustains Bruised Leg When Run Over by Auto

What might have resulted in a more serious accident occurred at Third and Main streets when 8-year-old Violet Maloy, living at 706 1/2 Mill street, was struck and one of her legs run over by an automobile driven by F. M. Nelson, Staughton, shortly before 6 o'clock Monday evening.

An examination by Dr. Egan revealed that the girl sustained no broken bones in her limb, escaping with severe bruises.

According to an eye-witness, W. J. Fries, who carried the girl from the pavement to Boerner's drug store after the accident, the girl darted across Main street toward the North American telegraph office. She noticed the Ford, which had just swung on to Main street from South Third street, approaching and in her effort to stop short, she slipped and fell to the pavement. The front wheel of the machine passed over one of her legs.

It was the opinion of eye-witnesses that Nelson was not at fault for the accident. He was driving slow, it was said, and stopped his machine within a few feet. Nelson made a report of the accident to Central police station. He drives a car for the M. H. Bekkedahl tobacco company.

PROPOSED COAL BILL IN MICHIGAN GIVES STATE WIDE POWERS

LANSING, Mich.—By The Associated Press.—An emergency bill which would give the state absolute control of the distribution and price of fuel, was presented to the state legislature in special session here Tuesday.

The measure would delegate to the state fuel administrator almost unlimited power to control fuel supplies, regulate dealers and prevent hoarding. It would give him the right to seize and sell any coal in excess of the needs of any consumer. He would have the power to ration fuel, fix maximum prices or fair profit margins, enter premises with legal immunity to investigate fuel conditions and deal in fuel to meet public demands.

SALVATION ARMY DRIVE CONTINUES BALANCE OF WEEK

Committee Receiving Liberal Donations in all Sections of the City

The Salvation Army drive which has been going on two days, will be continued the balance of the week in the outlying and residence districts. The cause is well received everywhere, people generally showing a willingness to assist to the limit of their finances.

The great work of the Salvation Army overseas created universal approbation. The returned soldiers have been unstinted in their praises of the army workers in France and elsewhere.

The budget necessary to be raised for the entire county is $5,200. It is believed, when all reports are turned in that this sum will be fully subscribed. Returns are naturally slow from factories, railroad shops and the outlying districts, but those in charge feel much encouraged in the manner in which the campaign is being received.

Arrangements have been made with all of the La Crosse banks for receiving subscriptions to the Salvation Army fund this week. There doubtless will be many persons overlooked by the canvassers who would like to contribute their mite to such a worthy cause. Collections by the banks will furnish a convenient method.

UTILITY FIRM TAKES OVER PROPERTIES IN NORTHERN WISCONSIN

CHICAGO, Ill.—The Middle West Utilities company Tuesday acquired the entire holdings of the syndicate, formed late in 1921, which obtained a controlling interest in the Ironwood and Bessemer (Mich.) Railway & Light company, the Ashland (Wis.) Light, Power & Street Railway company and the Lake Superior District Power company, formerly the Big Falls Water Power company. By the transaction, the Middle West Utilities company, which was a participant in the syndicate, obtains for itself all of the common stock of the Lake Superior Power company, together with certain preferred holdings and other assets.

The Lake Superior District Power company serves Ashland, Hurley and Ladysmith, Wis., and Ironwood, Bessemer and Wakefield, Mich., together with fifteen other communities and a large number of iron mines in the Gogebic Iron Range in Wisconsin and Michigan. The company is now constructing a large hydro-electric plant on the Flambeau river at Big Falls, Wis.

Possibilities for development of electric power business in the territory served are of large extent by reason of power demand from iron mining companies on the Gogebic range.

FRANZ SCHUBERT ANCESTOR OF GIRL PIANIST IN "WHIRL"

Is Instrumentalist and Singer, With Training as a Dancer

One of the most versatile young women in "The Whirl of New York" is Miss Florence Schubert who, incidentally, is a descendant of Franz Schubert and probably inherits her musical ability from the master. From the time she was thirteen years of age, until she accepted a contract with the Messrs. Schubert, Miss Schubert taught piano, and she was well known in the concert field around Chicago as a pianist.

Beginning her career as an aesthetic dancer, she brought to her piano playing a sensitive and refreshing regard for the rhythmic impulse. It always moves with spontaneous grace and has the vitality that springs from contagious rhythms as well as the charm that belongs to a tone of appealing beauty, to say nothing of the sturdy virtues that attach to a fine and thorough command of the mechanical aspects of her art.

Miss Schubert is one of the original members of "The Whirl of New York" company which played the New York Winter Garden prior to the creation as a vaudeville unit, playing the role of Cora Angelique. In addition to being a pianist, she is the possessor of a very pleasing voice and her early training as a dancer makes her adaptable to almost every role.

"The Whirl of New York" will be presented in Schubert Vaudeville by the New York Winter Garden Company, being one of four units prepared by that company. It is scheduled for appearance at the La Crosse Theater on Wednesday.

MINE CASUALTIES 50 PER CENT LOWER

CLEVELAND, O.—By The Associated Press.—Loss of life in the mining industry has been decreased proportionately fifty per cent during the period from 1907 to 1922, according to the annual report of the American mining congress, presented at the second session of its six day convention here Tuesday.

The report declared that mine safety was the only common ground on which the miners and operators have ever been able to meet and that the congress is now "striving to broaden this cooperation as a means to harmonizing industrial relations within the industry."

WISCONSIN BAPTISTS MEETING AT OSHKOSH OVER 200 PRESENT

OSHKOSH, Wis.—Early Tuesday over 200 delegates had registered here for the Wisconsin Baptist state convention, which opened Monday evening with an address by Dr. H. F. Stilwell on "A basic program of Evangelism," and will close Thursday evening. The morning was devoted to programs of the woman's state missionary society and the Baptist ministerial union. This afternoon the seventy-eighth annual session of the Wisconsin Baptist convention got in formal business session. An event of note for Wednesday evening will be a pageant, "Visions of Victory," written by Rev. C. A. Bold of Wauwatosa, director of the religious education of the convention. It depicts scenes of the development of the sect in Wisconsin, from the beginning of Baptist work at Delavan in 1841, to the present, with a forecast of the future. The first Baptist convention in the state, in 1846, will be enacted.

FIRST PULLMAN IN SERVICE SHOWN AT CHICAGO STATION

CHICAGO, Ill.—The first Pullman sleeping car was placed on exhibition Monday at the La Salle street passenger station. It was an old passenger coach remodeled by the late George M. Pullman and put into service between Chicago and Bloomington, Ill., September 1, 1859.

The car provided four lower and four upper berths. The seat backs were hinged so they could be dropped on level with the seat itself, over which a mattress and blankets were placed. The upper berths were suspended from ropes and during the day were drawn up to the ceiling. Curtains were used to separate the berths. The car was lighted with candles.

FOUR U. S. SHIPS IN PORT RELIEVED OF LIQUOR SUPPLY

NEW YORK.—By The Associated Press.—Every bottle of liquor on four American passenger vessels in port was removed Tuesday under orders from the shipping board, so that the dry agents and customs men will have nothing to do but check the inventory and cart the wines and whiskey off to the army base in Brooklyn for storage.

As the new phase of prohibition forbidding any vessel to carry liquor within the three-mile limit of American waters does not affect foreign ships until October 14 most of the big liners now in port will get away wet on their next eastward voyage.

The width of the Pacific ocean is about 10,300 miles.

SURE WAY TO GET RID OF BLACKHEADS

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this get two ounces of calomel powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot wet sponge—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear, leaving the parts without any mark whatever. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions from the body that form in the pores of the skin—pinching and squeezing only cause irritation, make large pores, do not get them out after they become hard. The calomel powder and the water simply dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition. Anybody troubled with these unsightly blemishes, should certainly try this simple method.

KEELER'S SQUAD RUN THROUGH LIGHT WORKOUT MONDAY

Weekly Scrimmage in Preparation for Columbia College Begins Tuesday

BOBBY HURD REPORTS FIRST TIME SINCE HIS INJURY

Poscover Still Held Out of Practice With Bad Ankle

Coach Keeler ran his teams through a light workout Monday afternoon, but beginning Tuesday the squad will be put through a week of hard, earnest work in preparation for the game with Columbia College. Indications are, that Columbia has one of the best teams in recent years, and are determined to keep a clean slate this season.

Much interest is being shown in this game as it is the first time since he broke his shoulder. He went through a light workout with the first team and still has his old time form. Poscover was kept out of practice because of his ankle, but his position was eagerly filled by Mattison. Mattison is a fighter of Dixley's type and should develop into one of the best guards in the conference before the end of the season.

The game with Columbia is Friday next, it is expected to be one of the best exhibitions of football seen on Normal Field this year.

M'CAULEY SURE OF A CONTRACT WITH THE SOX

DUBUQUE, Ia.—Columbia college, alma mater of Urban ("Red") Faber, has another big league prospect who is the center of discussion in the Dubuque athletic firmament at present. His name is Sylvester McCauley and he is officially certain of a Chicago White Sox contract for next year.

Besides being regarded by scouts as the best bet in the field of college baseball for some time, McCauley is a Class A gridiron performer and when he plays quarter Purple and Gold supporters would back their team against anything, but he has not reported for the last ten days because of the danger of breaking an ultra valuable arm.

If McCauley can be brought back into the game, he will be used against La Crosse normal next Friday.

MILLER HUGGINS TO MANAGE YANKS IF HE CHOOSES

Statement to this Effect Given Out by Col. Ruppert, the Yankees' President

NEW YORK.—By The Associated Press.—Miller Huggins will manage the New York American league team in 1923 if he cares to continue in the position he has held for the past few seasons.

This was the substance of a statement given The Associated Press Tuesday by Colonel Jacob Ruppert, president of the Yankees, in refuting a report from the west that Eddie Collins of the Chicago White Sox was to manage the local American league club next season.

According to these reports Collins was to come to the Yankees in a trade for Bob Meusel, outfielder, and Aaron Ward, second baseman, both of whom played throughout the world's series that ended Sunday, in addition to a cash consideration. Local reports included Babe Ruth in the deal and eliminated Ward.

BIG TEN COACHES PLUGGING UP WEAK SPOTS REVEALED IN PRELIM GAMES LAST SATURDAY

CHICAGO, Ill.—Big Ten football coaches this week are plugging up the weak spots revealed in last Saturday's games with non-conference contenders.

Some cleveans had more improvements to make than others but the main business of nine of the ten mentors lies in the correction of last Saturday's mistakes and corresponding ailments.

The lone exception in this program of "playing them over again" is Bob Zupke, whose Illinois warriors were idle last Saturday. Zupke plans to leave the generalship of his eleven in the hands of his assistants next Saturday when the Illini meet Butler and tie himself to New Haven to watch Iowa do battle with Yale.

Iowa at Illinois

ORIOLES TROUNCE SAINTS IN FOURTH GAME OF SERIES

BALTIMORE, Md.—Baltimore won the fourth game of the "little world's series," from St. Paul Monday, 7 to 3. With the score tied in the ninth, three men on bases, and one out, McAvoy broke up the game with a home run into the right field bleachers. It was his second homer of the series. He also broke up the first game with a circuit clout. This victory put Baltimore further in the lead, three games to one.

Groves and Benton, who started on the slab, were both knocked off. Parnham went in for Baltimore in the sixth and held the Saints scoreless for the remainder of the game. Hall relieved Benton in the ninth, after Walsh had doubled and had made third on a short single by Bentley.

After Bentley went out to first Bishop was purposely passed, filling the bases. Then McAvoy made his home run. Score: Baltimore.....000 001 114—7 St. Paul.....010 020 000—3 Batteries—Groves, Parnham and McAvoy; Benton, Hall and Gonzales.

Murray, former Princeton backfield star and a pupil of the famous Brickley of Harvard, has joined the Indiana coaching staff to help bolster up the Hoosiers for their game next Saturday with Minnesota at Indianapolis.

Scrubs and Freshmen elevens at Chicago and Northwestern are busy this week executing Maroon and Purple plays which the varsities will go up against in the annual clash next Saturday.

The Indiana-Minnesota game and the Chicago-Northwestern conflict are the only conference titular events on the card next Saturday and with the Iowa game are attracting the most attention in the Big Ten this week.

Ohio State is concentrating on preparing for Michigan October 21 when the Buckeyes dedicate their new stadium.

After next Saturday all of the Big Ten teams will have started the actual campaign for the football supremacy of the western conference.

GIANTS AND YANKEES SPLIT WORLD SERIES MELON ON MONDAY

Giants Get $4,451 Each While Yankees Get $2,853; Regulars Get Full Share

NEW YORK.—The New York Giants and Yankees Tuesday had received their share of the world's series money. The Giants split $111,250 into twenty-five shares of $4,451 each, while the Yankees divided their total $74,192 into twenty-six shares of $2,853 each, the difference between the winning and losing shares being $1,598.

The Giants apportioned the money among themselves and no announcement was made as to which players received full shares. Regulars with the team throughout the season, of course, received full shares, but if the team followed last year's precedent such players as Hugh McQuillan and John Scott, who joined the club in mid-season, would get only half portions. Others including Blume, McPhie, McGuire, Shinnery, King and Hill, figure to get smaller shares.

Twenty-five players on the Yankee roster receive full shares, it was announced, while a twenty-sixth portion was divided as follows:

Trainer Doc Woods, a half share, $1,426; Coach Frank Roth, $500; Groundkeeper Phil Scheuk, $500; Mascot Eddie Bennett, $300; Mauley Llewellyn, pitcher, $127.

"DEMS" TO GO ON OFFICIAL BALLOT AS INDEPENDENTS

List of Candidates Compiled by Hall Shows But Three Important Contests

ELECTORATE HAS NOTHING TO GET EXCITED ABOUT

Republicans Regarded as Having Won Election Without Fight

MADISON, Wis.—By the Associated Press.—The Wisconsin electorate isn't going to have much to get excited about in the November general election, unless it picks some district or local political fight as the object of its attention, the ballot completed today by Elmer S. Hall, secretary of state, shows.

With the democratic party candidates for state offices knocked into the independent column by the primary law, and the socialist and prohibition party candidates showing little strength judging by the vote cast for them at the primary election, the republican nominees for principal offices seem to have the election won without a fight.

The official list of candidates completed Tuesday by the secretary of state, shows but three contests of marked importance in the state. These all are in congressional districts, one in the ninth between George J. Schneider, republican, Judge Henry Graess, independent republican, and C. J. Hanzel, independent democrat; one in the fifth between Victor L. Berger, socialist, and Congressman William H. Stafford, republican, and the other in the fourth between John C. Schafer, republican, Edmund T. Melme, socialist, and Joseph Drezdow, democrat.

Following is the list of opposing candidates for office as prepared for publication on the November ballot: For governor: John J. Blaine, republican; A. A. Bentley, independent democrat; Louis A. Arnold, socialist; M. L. Welles, prohibition; A. A. Dietrich, socialist-labor independent.

For lieutenant governor: George F. Comings, republican; Joseph R. Pfister, independent democrat; Martin Georgensen, socialist; Ella Tenney Sanford, prohibition. For secretary of state: Fred R. Zimmerman, republican; Peter S. Brzonkala, independent democrat; Mathilda Boorman, socialist; Maria I. A. Nelson, prohibition.

For state treasurer: Solomon Levitan, republican; Emil Tauck, independent.

pendent democrat; L. P. Christensen, socialist; Clyde D. Mead, prohibition.

For attorney general: Herman L. Ekern, republican; Jeremiah F. Collins, independent democrat; Charles L. Allen, prohibition.

For U. S. senate: Robert M. La Follette, republican; Jessie Jack Cooper, independent democrat; Adolph R. Bucknam, prohibition; Richard Koeppl, socialist-labor independent.

For congress, first district: Henry Allen Cooper, republican; Niels P. Nielsen, socialist.

Second district: Edward Voigt, republican; William F. Schanen, democrat.

Third district: John M. Nelson, republican; Martha Riley, independent democrat.

Fourth district: John C. Schafer, republican; Joseph F. Drezdow, democrat; Edmund T. Melme, socialist.

Fifth district: William H. Stafford, republican; Victor L. Berger, socialist.

Sixth district: Florian Lampert, republican; William E. Cavanaugh, independent democrat.

Seventh district: Joseph D. Beck, republican; Bert A. Jollivette, independent democrat; A. W. Steinbach, independent socialist.

Ninth district: George J. Schneider, republican; Judge Henry Graess, independent republican; Charles J. Hanzel, independent democrat.

Tenth district: James A. Frear, republican; Olin Swenson, socialist.

Eleventh district: Hubert H. Peavey, republican; unopposed.

A number of fights between party candidates have developed in legislative districts.

DOERFLINGER'S

NEW SILK FROCKS $16.95 to $59.50

Silk Crepes in plain or satin faced styles make scores of Fall Gowns. Some are beautifully embroidered on the wide sleeves. Others are plainly styled and have the accent note in a lovely girle or metal buckle.

$10.00 to $49.50
